

RETAILER LIQUOR LICENSE
TERMS AND CONDONITIONS

As a Retailer licensed to sell liquor within the Navajo Nation, I understand that said license is subject to revocation if any of the following occur:

- Conviction of a felony
- Determination that Licensee sold liquor to a minor
- Determination that Licensee sold liquor to an intoxicated person
- Failure to present documents upon request
- Failure to comply with reporting requirements
- Determination that sales were made by a person other than a certified server
- Failure to post copy of Retailer Liquor License
- Failure to post notice informing customers that removing liquor from premises is a violation of federal law
- Purchase of liquor from an unlicensed wholesaler
- Determination that Licensee made a sale for resale
- Determination that Licensee allowed customers to bring liquor onto premises for personal consumptions
- Sale of liquor on a Sunday, holiday, or election day in contravention of Navajo Nation law
- Determination that Licensee allowed extension of credit other than as provided for in regulations
- Determination that Licensee intended or attempted to transfer license from location listed on application to a second location

I understand that Licensee is responsible for any actions of any employee of Licensee.

I understand that the license is not a property right.

I understand that the license may not be transferred to any other person or entity.
